A BILL

To amend the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 to provide for greater spousal protection under defined contribution plans, and for other purposes.

1       Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2       tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3       SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

4       (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the 5       “Women’s Pension Protection Act of 2015”.

6       (b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

1                   (1) Approximately 45.9 percent of private sec-
2                   tor workers do not participate in a workplace retire-3                   ment savings program and, of those who do not par-4                   ticipate, 84 percent have reported that they do not 5                   have access to a workplace retirement program, ac-
6                   cording to a September 2015 report on retirement
7                   coverage by the Government Accountability Office.

8                   (2) Women's retirement preparedness often lags
9                   significantly behind their male counterparts, result-10                  ing in the median retirement income for women in 11                  2010 being just 59 percent of men's retirement in-12                  come.

13                  (3) Women are almost twice as likely as men to 14                  live in poverty after age 65.

15                  (4) Women make up  $\frac{2}{3}$  of low-wage workers, 16                  even though they comprise less than half of all work-17                  ers, and low-wage workers are less likely than other 18                  workers to participate in a retirement plan at work.

19                  (5) The cost impact on women who leave the 20                  workforce early to become caregivers, in terms of 21                  lost wages and Social Security benefits, equals 22                  $324,044 in lost retirement savings.

23                  (6) Just 1 in 5 part-time workers who work a 24                  full year are eligible for a retirement plan, and

1        women are almost twice as likely to work part-time
2        as men.

3                (7) While traditional defined benefit retirement
4        plans have spousal protections, defined contribution 5        retirement plans, which have become increasingly 6        common, currently provide no similar spousal protec-
7        tions.

8        TITLE I—IMPROVING PENSION 9                PLAN COVERAGE

10      SEC. 101. INCREASING SPOUSAL PROTECTION UNDER DE- 11                FINED CONTRIBUTION PLANS.

12                (a) IN GENERAL.—Part 2 of subtitle B of title I of 13        the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974
14        (29 U.S.C. 1051 et seq.) is amended by inserting after 15        section 205 the following new section:

16      “SEC. 205A. ADDITIONAL SPOUSAL CONSENT REQUIRE- 17                MENTS.

18                “(a) IN GENERAL.—Each individual account plan to 19        which section 205 does not apply shall provide that, except 20        as provided in subsections (c) and (d), no distribution may 21        be made under the plan unless the spousal consent re-
22        quirements of subsection (e) are met.

23                “(b) COORDINATION WITH SECTION 205.—Nothing
24        in this section shall be construed to exempt an individual

1 account plan from the requirements of paragraph (1)(C) 2 or (2) of section 205(b) with respect to any participant.

3       “(c) EXCEPTIONS FOR CERTAIN DISTRIBUTIONS.—

4 Subsection (a) shall not apply to—

8               enue Code of 1986;

9              “(B) a result of the use of the partici-10             pant’s accrued benefit as security for a loan, in-11             cluding any distribution required by reason of a 12             failure to comply with the terms of such loan;

13              “(C) made upon hardship of the partici-14             pant; or

24             joint lives (or life expectancies) of the participant 25             and the participant’s spouse; or

1               “(3) in the case of a participant who does not 2               elect a form of benefit described in paragraph (2) 3               under the plan or who is participating in a plan that 4               does not provide such a form of benefit, any dis-
5               tribution of the participant’s entire nonforfeitable
6               accrued benefit if 50 percent of such accrued benefit 7               is transferred to an individual retirement plan (as 8               defined in section 7701(a)(37) of the Internal Rev-9               enue Code of 1986) of the spouse of the participant.

10 A transfer described in paragraph (3) to an individual re-
11 tirement plan shall be treated in the same manner as a 12 transfer under section 408(d)(6) of the Internal Revenue
13 Code of 1986.

14               “(d) EXCEPTIONS FOR CERTAIN ROLLOVER CON-
15 TRIBUTIONS.—Subsection (a) shall not apply to any dis-16 tribution that is an eligible rollover distribution (as de-
17 fined in section 402(f)(2)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code 18 of 1986) made in the form of a direct trustee-to-trustee 19 transfer within the meaning of section 401(a)(31) of the 20 Internal Revenue Code of 1986—

21               “(1) to a plan to which this section or section 22 205 applies; or

23               “(2) to an individual retirement plan (as de-
24 fined in section 7701(a)(37) of the Internal Revenue 25 Code of 1986) if—

1                 “(A) the beneficiary of such plan is the 2                 spouse of the participant, or the spousal con-
3                 sent requirements of subsection (e) are met 4                 with respect to any designation of 1 or more 5                 other beneficiaries; and

6                 “(B) the beneficiary of such plan (whether 7                 the spouse or other beneficiary designated 8                 under paragraph (1)) may not be changed un-9                 less—

10                 “(i) the spousal consent requirements 11                 of subsection (e) are met with respect to 12                 any such change, or

13                 “(ii) the spousal consent under sub-14                 paragraph (A) to the designation of a ben-15                 eficiary other than the spouse expressly 16                 permits such designation to be changed
17                 without the further consent of the spouse.

18                 “(e) SPOUSAL CONSENT REQUIREMENTS.—

19                 “(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this sec-
20                 tion, except as provided in paragraph (2), the spous-21                 al consent requirements of this subsection are met 22                 with respect to any distribution or any designation 23                 or change of beneficiary if—

24                 “(A) the plan provides to each participant, 25                 within a reasonable period of time before such 16 distribution or designation or change of 17 beneficiary; and

18 " (ii) is witnessed by a plan represent-19 ative or a notary public.

20 " (2) EXCEPTIONS UNDER SECTION

21 205(c)(2)(B) TO APPLY.—The requirements of para-
22 graph (1) (other than subparagraph (A) thereof)
23 shall not apply with respect to any distribution or

7 tion or designation or change of beneficiary; or

8 “(C) such consent cannot be obtained be-9 cause—

10 “(i) the spouse cannot be located;

11 “(ii) due to exceptional circumstances, 12 requiring the participant to seek the 13 spouse’s consent would be inappropriate; 14 or

15 “(iii) of such other circumstances as 16 the Secretary of the Treasury may by reg-
17 ulations prescribe.

18 “(3) CONSENT LIMITED TO SPOUSE AND 19 ment (as described in section 403(b) of such Code) 20 shall not require, as a condition of participation in 23 employers) maintaining the plan extending beyond

1                 “(A) the period permitted under subsection
2                 (a)(1) (determined without regard to subparagraph
