Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the Department of Justice awards grants to nonprofit or public organizations that provide services to victims of sexual assault. This bill increases the amount for such grants by $7,000,000 in fiscal year 2023-24 and $18,000,000 in fiscal year 2024-25. Under the bill, DOJ must also annually provide a grant to a nonstate entity to provide ongoing training and technical assistance to the recipients of the grants under current law in order to enhance the services to the victims.

Under current law, the Department of Children and Families awards grants to nonprofit or public organizations that provide domestic abuse services. This bill increases the amount for such grants by $7,000,000 in fiscal year 2023-24 and $18,000,000 in fiscal year 2024-25.

Under current law, DOJ must provide $17,000 in each fiscal year to specified child advocacy centers for education, training, medical advice, and quality assurance activities. This bill increases the amount to $150,000 in each fiscal year and changes the purpose so that the funds are to enhance the multidisciplinary response to
